Courthouse Saturday closing voted, held

The Courthouse will close Saturday so long as they remain open for business all day Wednesday following a vote of the Board of Supervisors Tuesday afternoon. The vote was 5-2 in favor of the practice.

Dean appeared willing to withdraw his motion after the sheriff cited some of the confusion he believed would ensue as well as difficulty within his own staff. But it was noted the motion had been seconded and already adopted so action was withheld until this coming Monday.

Roads basis redistricting

Advocated by Necaise; investment of funds now held by the county depository not immediately needed to liquidate bonds and/or securities, in revenue producing securities in the hope taxes might be lowered. He noted present funds in the depository are drawing no interest.

Supervisors Keller and H. G. Dean suggested that Marie Quintin, clerk, supply detailed information on the amount available for investment, dates on which bond notes are due, etc., at the next meeting Monday.

Sailing pupils rescued by CD after squall

Four persons were brought in from an overturned sailboat in the Bay of St. Louis which was ditched in Wednesday afternoon's sudden squall. Civil defense director Bert Stieff received a call from L. J. Pountain, who spotted Bay-Waveland Yacht Club sailing instructor Walter Chamberlain, Mr. John Woods, Susan Ashman and two visiting cousins holding the vessel.

Stieff contacted Bernie Plunkett, rescue chief, and with Sam Smith, rescue boat crew, used in the rescue. John Chamberlain and Charles Thomas picked up the sailors, towed to their boat and another from the yacht club which had broken down while attempting to reach the sailboat.

Lake Shore Revival

Rev. V. K. Fletcher, chaplain of the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola will be speaking at the revival services the week of Aug. 3 at Lakeshore Baptist Church.

County schools press for relief

Where MTO workers live

Hancock houses bulk

Hancock County claims the largest number of Mississippi Test Operations employees, with 116 residing in its six communities. Breakdown from MTO headquarters gives 67 in Bay St. Louis, 37 in Waveland, four each in Lakeshore and Pearlington, and two each in Kiln and Clermont Harbor, as of June 30.

In other counties, 106 reside in Harrison, 98 in Pearl River, 27 in St. Tammany Parish, and five in Petal, New Orleans and Bogalusa, La., and Mobile, Ala., combined.

The greatest number of MTO personnel in Hancock are with the Corps of Engineers, 60 at the site and 20 at the real estate office. There are 16 employed with General Electric, seven each with NASA and Raytheon Corp., five with the security patrol and one with Sverdrup and Parcel.

Col. Beatty named MTO area engineer

Lt. Col. Roy P. Beatty has been assigned as area engineer for the Corps of Engineers at Mississippi Test Operations effective Aug. 3.

His previous assignment was as deputy district engineer at Honolulu, Hawaii. He is expected to arrive here shortly with his wife and two sons, aged 17 and 14, to start house hunting.

William P. Coryell, acting engineer, will continue at MTO as deputy to Colonel Beatty. The post has been vacant since the retirement early this year of Charles Jackson. John P. Kennedy was acting engineer.

WORKERS AT MTO
Total work force with Mississippi Test Operations slumped just slightly this week but held solidly above the 2,000 mark.

Monday's count was 2,157 in all of which 1,744 were contractor personnel.

Completion of the emergency services building, first permanent structure at the test site, in the next few weeks is likely to trim the total somewhat although work may start by then on some other recently awarded contract. C and B Construction Co. is building the emergency services facility for $286,000.

Land purchases said 95% done
Acquisition of the 138,000 acre buffer zone for Mississippi Test Operations is 95 per cent complete as the real estate office for the Corps of Engineers, which is handling the job, moves toward its target date of January, 1965, to turn over the titles to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Indications are that the Corps' real estate office at Main and Second Streets will be down to a skeleton crew by that time, preparatory to wrapping up the assignment which began in early 1962 after the Hancock County site was selected for static rocket testing. Its peak force was 48 in January and it is now down to 26 employees.

In the smaller fee area which is now in the government's possession, settlement remains to be completed on a 320 acre tract of Crosby Forest Products.

In the buffer zone negotiations are still pending with one of the largest property owners, International Paper Co. Its 33,000 acres are about 33 per cent of the total of 101,300 acres in Hancock County.

There are some 3,400 individual land owners involved and the bulk of the cases going into U.S. District Court at Biloxi are small tracts where there are title difficulties, according to O.B. Moore, real estate project manager. He estimated about 22 per cent of the tracts have required court action.

Buildings are to be off the floor by August 1, 1965.

Trustees ask base bid, reapply to HB on wing
Trustees of Hancock General Hospital, at a special meeting Monday night, voted to recommend that the board of supervisors accept the low base bid for the 24-bed addition to the hospital and re-apply through the Hill-Burton Act for federal aid for the 12-bed wing.

The session was called to consider various possibilities to securing expansion of the plant. Bids were opened before the board of supervisors last Wednesday and when the price of the base project and the 12-bed wing ran over estimates, supervisors agreed to hold up action until this coming Monday to let hospital officials explore the situation.

Trustees ask base bid, reapply to HB on wing
Indications are that replacement of the Logtown School in the Pearlington area is to be financed principally under a school relocation formula on which the board attorney, Walter J. Phillips, is negotiating with the federal government.

A $375,000 bond issue proposal was beaten at the polls in early May, failing to secure the necessary 60 per cent of those going to the polls.

Phillips estimated Saturday that $52,000 is the maximum money available for building funds without a bond issue. Of that $35,000 could be raised from short term loans requiring a special levy and $17,000 from 16th Section money.

He reported he has set up tentative appointments for early August with the Justice Department and Corps of Engineers in Washington to go into the Logtown replacement matter. The attorney, who is the Last week's Republican convention proved several facts which we consider to be more or less pertinent. First, the very obvious conclusion - with a name composed of two of the most popular words in the English language, how could Barry come out other than on top? Secondly, a number of voters discovered they really could live without their favorite past-time, while yet another group staggered around with red rimmed eyes all week... they just couldn't go to sleep until the darn thing was off!

After the wearying week

We'll confess that it was a welcome relief from the re-runs, three-runs, and so on, but could take the nauseating sight of supposedly adult Americans waving placards like a bunch of kids holding balloons at a birthday party just so long before we had to push the little off button. It did give a number of husbands and wives the opportunity to commune in more than one or two sentences between commercials... but we haven't done enough research to discover whether this was good or bad... personally we noticed the argument ratio rose about 89 point nine percent around our house and would be interested to know how things worked out for others!

One of the nicer recent parties was the stork shower hosted by Mrs. Harrison Von Anz at her Terrace Avenue home surprising June Thomas-Hall last Tuesday night. Ralph MacKey's contribution of bouquets of beautiful orchids completed the decor. Guests included Mrs. Basil Cockshott, the prospective grandmother, Betty Rose, Helen Lewis, Mamie Giamelloni, Mrs. Tom Murray, Mrs. Ed LeVasseur, Doris Wilday, Jane McGuire, Faye Vaughn, Mrs. Calvin Phelps, Gladys Kimbrell, Mrs. Phillip Amerman and Mrs. Pizzaro (and we hope that's how it's spelled!).

Finally Vaughn returned to her home in Jackson last Sunday after spending two weeks vacation with her parents, Faye and Robert Vaughn, at their Terrace Avenue home. The children, Carol, twins Billy and Bobby and Charlie will remain with their grandparents until time for school to start.

Whinnie and Jack Holm will be a bit harder to find these days...they no longer own the distinctive lavender convertible.... Jack says the new car looks brown to him but the dealer lists it as gold.

Ann and Ed Porter took over the convertible.... we thought we were waving at the Holms and Ann popped out of the car wearing her cute Red Cross uniform. Very confusing.

The A. R. Dunlaps spent the weekend in their Market Street home.

Get well wishes go to Lloyd (Father) Cunningham who has pneumonia.

Something new for the men

A new fad among businessmen around town is the office remodeling bug that seems to have bitten a number of these gentlemen. Earl Ramond's new beige walls and decorative drapes are most attractive; the boss's new paneled inner sanctum is something to behold and absolutely no one has a thing on Harold Carver as his retreat boasts sink, refrigerator, soundproof nap room and even a working bathtub - BUT for pure sumptuousness, please drop in on Olio Mollere - we're still awed by knee deep red carpet, a huge contour desk, white oversized sofa and other accoutrements... it's just too, too much for our unjaded eyes!

Dot and Dan Russell and Alice and Johnny Scatfield are looking forward to a wonderful time in Miami, Fla., where they'll attend the municipal officials convention from Saturday through Wednesday. Dan's trip will be slightly interrupted as he'll fly to Jackson for the Democratic convention, then return to Miami.

Mrs. Marion Seftle Oiestad reports the fourth cat death by poisoning on Chartreuse Street and she and her neighbors are more than a little upset over the cruelty of whoever is distributing anyone in the neighborhood. She hopes that this will serve as a warning to the guilty party and prevent more feline tragedies.

Gripe corner

Camille Schaeffer wants to know why some people pay large amounts of money for large registered dogs, then let them run loose chasing automobiles and attempting suicide in a number of other ways. We're sure before there was so much traffic, it was kinder to allow an animal freedom to roam... but few cases are equipped to cope with cars, trains and similar hazards.

Carma and "Mitch" Mitchell took off for vacations in opposite directions. Mitch is visiting his family in Fall River, Mass., and Carma is in Florida with daughter Maureen (Mrs. Gary) Wheatly and two small sons.

Myrtle and R. F. Jones returned from San Diego last week accompanied by daughter Geraldine (Mrs. Melvin) Wilson, who will remain here until after the arrival of her first child in late November.

We don't know Zelda Wehmer's mother's name, but will wish her a happy birthday nevertheless as she was honored at a birthday dinner at the Wehmer home, Kenwood, on Sunday, July 19.

Dual festivity

Joelle Herbig (and Clarence of course) had double reason to celebrate last Saturday night. It was Joelle's birthday and their 25th wedding anniversary was Tuesday, July 21. Neighbors Claude and Frank Klein observed their 39th anniversary on July 15. Congratulations to all!

He and Jack Kremer are preparing to move into their lovely new brick home on the very near future. His usual word that with the help of the column the depend of her kitchen... wonderful it never quite managed to help us get rid of Alcatraz's attraction. Grace and Sam Bortog were pleasantly surprised when gorgeous sisters, Kitty (Mrs. Harvey, Jr.) Reese of Memphis, Tenn. and Rachael (Mrs. Jerry) Harpole of Canton.... It was a festive occasion although we became a little confused trying to decide which one was the "loaded" sister.... and we don't mean inebriated.... there were also numerous beautiful blonde, near blonde and red haired children running around. Part of the entertainment consisted of the explanation of what

AT MUNICIPAL MEET - Space Age in Mississippi was primary topic for discussion at Mississippi Municipal Assn. convention at Buena Vista Hotel in Biloxi last week. Discussing program are from left, C. M. Dorrance, mayor of Ruleville, new president; Senator William J. Caraway, Leland, secretary; and John A. Scatfield, mayor of Bay St. Louis, retiring president.

Give the Law a Chance

PASSAGE OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS law has revealed a rather surprising and highly commendable inclination to observe its requirements.

In a number of Deep South cities restaurants and hotels have been "integrated" without commotion.

We suggest that now is the time for Northern friends of civil rights, particularly white Northerners, to clear out of the South and give the Southern people, both white and Negro, a chance to adjust to the new situation which the law establishes.

Continued presence of these visitors constitutes a provocation, making it difficult for moderates to exert their influence. There remain plenty of racial injustices for these Northern crusaders to right, back in their home towns.

Southern resistance to desegregation has been based on a theory that Supreme Court decisions were merely the opinions of the court and not the "law of the land." This implied clearly that if desegregation were the law they would obey it. Now it definitely is the law, passed by Congress and signed by the President.

THIS GIVES RESPONSIBLE Southern leaders a chance to change gracefully and Sen. Allen J. Ellender, of Louisiana, has set a splendid example.

Sen. Ellender fought the civil rights law to the last ditch but says: "Now we have before us a law with which many of us disagree and will find hard to obey. But it is the law..."

He added that further resistance "must be within the framework of the orderly processes established by law. Any other course is foolhardy and indefensible."

We admire the courage of the young civil rights workers, dedicating their summer vacation to work among the Negroes in Mississippi. But their presence is doing more to inflame and fix white prejudices than it is to establish Negro rights.

These young people, moreover, are exposing themselves to the vengeful acts of half-mad, illiterate whites operating in isolated, rural areas of the state and capable of any crime, as the record of killing and church burnings illustrates.

These crimes are not at all typical of Mississippi conduct, any more than muggings and rapes in Manhattan are typical of New York. But reasonably prudent people should have the good judgment to stay out of danger areas in Mississippi as well as in New York. Adults who continue to encourage these young people not only risk the youngsters' lives. They also encourage incidents which make accommodation to a changed way of life more and more difficult.

There are far too many white citizens, anyhow, contesting with Negroes in some places for civil rights leadership. This has caused such ridiculous incidents as one in San Francisco where the Negro U.S. District Attorney had to eject from his office an all-white crowd "sitting-in" to protest injustices in Mississippi.

The new law of the land clearly defines civil rights which must be granted in all states. It relies heavily upon voluntarily compliance but there is plenty of enforcement machinery in the case of continued defiance.

Now that we have before us, in the words of Sen. Ellender, "a law," the great need is a breathing-spell, giving Deep South areas a chance to comply without outsiders constantly daring them to violate the law. In our opinion those sincerely interested in equal rights—rather than personal glory or futile martyrdom—will give them that chance.

county's representative in the legislature, discussed informally some aspects of bills passed at the recent special session dealing with schools which he said should "afford a safety valve for the regressive attitude some parts of the state."

Thomas S. P. Powell declared he believed the county should get ahead as though nothing had happened and proceed with meeting its building needs.

On day to day cash needs, Phillips noted the position of other legislators that they could not vote special relief for Hancock County when the full amount was available under the law and he would not vote for it.

He said he could understand why the supervisors were reluctant to raise taxes but on the other hand he said people are demanding more services.

Superintendent Phillips observed that the county and the Bay St. Louis system are paying teachers up to $10,000 more than the county. With three more mills, this could be equalized and the county could hold and attract top personnel, he contended.

The Mississippi Legislature POLITICOS SPEAK

BY RALPH SOWELL JR.

The closing decisions of a special session of the Mississippi Legislature was hardly noticed last week, as Barry Goldwater was before the eyes of the nation, and more particularly, Mississippians.

After a couple of weeks of debate over several provisions of a private school bill, a compromise version was accepted last week.

The plan will permit the state to give to private school pupils up to $185 per year to help with tuition, providing they were not attending sectarian or parochial schools.

It also permits local school districts to levy up to four mills in additional property taxes to provide funds to augment the state grant.

A $1 million appropriation bill was passed, to provide money for the private school grants, but no one seems to know whether this amount is either too much, or too little.

Many of the legislators expressed dissatisfaction with the compromise bill. The House and Senate had been battling for days whether or not to include students who attended church schools.

Most of the worry has been over whether the bill is constitutional or not. At any rate, most of the legislators just passed the bill, because that was what they had been called in special session to do, and as they went home they were happier over adjournment than over the school program itself.

Another bill was passed which will set up tests for students transferring into new schools to determine to which grade they should be assigned.

Another school-related measure given attention was the passage of a bill to permit segregation of schools by sex.

Meanwhile, Governor Paul Johnson called on Mississippians to maintain a calm approach to problems created by out-of-staters.

The special session, called primarily to provide a freedom of choice between public and private schools, and to maintain existence of public schools, produced 57 new laws.

State Auditor Hamp King released figures last week which showed that former governor Ross Barnett's administration spent $28 million dollars more than it took in in revenue.

The state, however, was not found in deficit, because of the high surplus left in the treasury by Gov. J. P. Coleman. The auditor's report revealed that figures given by Coleman in last summer's campaign, were not false, as was contradicted by opponents in the gubernatorial race.

The biggest revenue producer last year was the sales tax, followed by the income tax and tobacco tax.

Focus on president

Mississippi's political picture will now focus on the election of a president of the United States. The National Republican Convention fed new hopes into Mississippians and all conservatives last week, when Goldwater forces, again and again, defeated moderate coalitions at the San Francisco rally.

Prior to the convention, many Mississippians had just about made up their mind to vote for Alabama's Governor George Wallace, never really believing a man who voted against the Civil Rights Bill would be nominated as the Republican choice.

Now the picture has become blurred. Immediately, Mississippians began calling for Wallace to bow out in favor of Goldwater, so as not to split the conservative votes. Wallace expressed the opinion that he will not quit. However, he pulled out of the race Sunday.

Former Gov. Ross Barnett and Jackson Mayor Allan Thompson remained firm and said they would stick with Wallace and the unpledged movement if the Alabama Governor stayed in the race.

However, other prominent Magnolia States, jumped on the Goldwater wagon. The moves were not so much a joining of the Republican party, but rather pro-Goldwater movement, as an attempt to remove "scalawag" LBJ from the White House.

Two of Hinds County's and another from Warren County, Representatives in the Mississippi Legislature, announced to the public that they will support Goldwater. A Representative said he would offer his aid to a "Democrats for Goldwater" movement in the state.

A poll taken in the Senate revealed that 36 favored Goldwater, 12 for Wallace, and one for President Johnson. One ballot had a write-in—"Calvin Coolidge", the man elected on a platform of "Keep Cool with Coolidge".

Beyer is new CO at Great Lakes

Capt. Kenneth M. Beyer, Supply Corps, of Bay St. Louis, became commanding officer of the U.S. Navy Electronics Supply Office, Great Lakes, Ill., in an impressive, outdoor change-of-command ceremony July 2. He has been executive officer there since last August.

Capt. Winona H. Schlect, S.C., USN, whom Captain Beyer relieved as commanding officer, is the Bureau of Naval Weapons, Navy Department, Washington, D.C., for duty as assistant chief for contracts.

A native of New Orleans, La., Captain Beyer is the son of Rear Admiral Edward F. Beyer, (USNR Retired) and Mrs. Beyer, the former Nell Blanch Nav, who now lives here.

As commanding officer of ESO, Captain Beyer is responsible for managing the Navy-wide inventory of electronic repair parts, valued at approximately $200 million. He is in command of 1100 military and civilian personnel engaged in the identification, procurement and distribution of over 180,000 different types of parts.

Due to the explosion of electronics technology, the equipments requiring ESO support have become increasingly complex and the parts more costly. Captain Beyer's command now is responsible for supporting both fleet and Navy shore requirements for electronic repair parts required to keep in operation guided missile systems, such as fleet ballistic missile submarines and the POLARIS, TALOS, TERRIER and TARTAR missiles, command/control systems, inertial navigation systems, radar, sonar, loran and other electronics equipment.

A veteran of 23 years' Naval service, Captain Beyer earned a bachelor of science degree in business and technology upon graduation from Oregon State University and was awarded a master's in business administration from Harvard University Graduate School of Business. During World War II he served aboard the battleship USS North Carolina and the submarine decoy ship, USS Astorian. From Nov. 1943 to Dec. 1944 he was supply officer at the Advanced Base Depot, Receiving Barracks and the Naval Training Center at Gulfport.

After a year on the USS Hecuba as supply officer, Captain Beyer was ordered to the Naval Supply Depot, Balboa, Canal Zone. In August 1946 he transferred from the Reserves to the regular Navy. Beyer served at the Naval Supply Center, Norfolk, Va., as assistant freight terminal officer and officer-in-charge of the special weapons supply depot. Completing two years as supply officer of the attack aircraft carrier USS Bennington, he was assigned to the inventory control division of the bureau of supplies and accounts, Navy Department, Washington, D.C.

As guided missiles and nuclear weapons program officer at the bureau, he assisted in coordinating supply logistics support for the Navy's missiles and nuclear weapons programs. In addition, he was head of the supply demand control point programs branch.

After participating in the organizational planning for the proposed bureau of naval weapons, Beyer was assigned as head of its supply control

Competing in the district meet with Bay St. Louis were Natchez, Clifton, Edwards, Port Gibson and Vicksburg.

Coaching the Bay St. Louis team are Mrs. P. E. Porter, Jr., Mrs. Lewis Stephenson and Mrs. Fred Wagner.

One of our favorite close-by spots for saltwater fishing, swimming or just getting-away-from-it-all is the Freemason Islands, just 34 nautical miles from Bay St. Louis, bearing 135 degrees magnetic. The main island has been developed for sportsmen by Eustis and Margie Veazey who, with their black cocker, Pal, are the only permanent residents.

Eustis and Margie have provided facilities which are as complete as one could wish, but not uncomfortably fancy. There is a boat slip which will accommodate vessels drawing up to about three feet of water and plenty of sheltered offshore anchorage for heavier ships. A 2,000-foot runway has been carved out for land airplanes and there is all of Chandeleur Sound if you want to go by seaplane. Two-way radiotelephone supplies communication with the mainland. The sleeping quarters are adequate for parties of up to 16 persons. Eustis has a good collection of skiffs, speed-hulls, and outboard motors for rent, and Margie is an excellent cook not soon forgotten.

Right now the fishing there is excellent either in the surf or offshore. The speckled trout, averaging 2 to 2 1/2 pounds with some 3 pounds and over, seem to be caught best in the early morning and late afternoon while they are feeding over grass beds in 3 or 4 feet of water. Last week they weren't at all fussy about what they would strike, going either for a shad rig and float, a Sidewinder, or a Mirror-Lure modified for shallow-running. The reds and gafftopsail cats are also plentiful. For the night owls there are plenty of flounder around Freemason and nearby Chandeleur. On better days the waters have been clear enough for skin diving and spearfishing.

Boatmen will find the Freemason Islands on C. and G. S. Chart 1270. The entrance to the harbor and slip is from the south, and shallows are well-marked by stakes. For airplane pilots the New Orleans Sectional Aeronautical Chart will suffice. The runway has a shell surface and runs approximately north-south. In either case, however, we'd recommend getting more detailed advice from someone already familiar with the area before undertaking the trip for the first time.

Quite a few fish regret Ray Garwood took a few days vacation last week. With wife Rae, E. C. and Peggy Lusich and their two boys from New Orleans and several other sets of company during the week, Ray attacked the seafood with hook-and-line, spear, and assorted nets. What, no baseball bats?

Luke Elliott and his family were in from Baton Rouge for the weekend and as usual, kept his fly rod active. Fishing both Pearl River and the upper reaches of the Jordan, he managed to bring in the limit of green trout and perch every trip.

The Carolyn Drew returned recently after a successful week's cruise to Destin, Fla. Aboard were Claude Lawless, Ronald Storey, George and Jane Storey, and Ronald and Peggy Rittre. Since it was the party's first fishing expedition into that area, it turned out to be a real "voyage of discovery". Claude reports that bonito and king mackerel were especially plentiful in the Gulf. Their most impressive boating was a 20-pound kingfish, the prettiest small dolphin.

Jack Jordy says we're not allowed to report his flounder catches anymore. Seems like all his friends who read come by with hungry looks on their faces. Pretty soon the good-hearted fellow doesn't have any fish left for himself! Sorry, Jack. Have you ever tried telling them to go spear their own, or would you rather have friends than flounders?

J. C. Baxter has been in from Texas for some heavy fishing in the old home waters. He was joined for one expedition by Eddie Zimmerman and son Johnny, Robert Yarborough and Robert, Jr., all from Dallas. With Sam Scaffid captain, the party made a sweep of Chandeleur Sound near Freemason early last week but were hampered by extremely low tides during that time. Later in the week, aboard the Doris M with Leo Seal, Jr., at the wheel, J. C. said the tides improved considerably and that speckled trout were abundant in the Sound around North Island.

Among other good reports of saltwater fishing around the end of the week was from Joe Kern. Joe and a guest boated some 70 specks during a sortie near Three Mile Bayou, but noted that in their whole string was only one white trout.

Fahey curbs YC effort

Fahey Drug, scoring in every inning, stopped a Youth Center rally last Thursday 9-6. Stephen Faucetta doubled, Stan Worrell singled, Gene Estapa, borrowed Little Leaguer, got a pair of singles, and Sylvan Ladner, borrowed Brave, got a two bagger to account for Fahey's six hits.

YC's rallies came in the top of the fifth with R. Curet lining a homer with two men on to account for four runs, and two were in the second on two hits.

In the second game, Sea Coast Echo Scoops down Bay Braves 3-1 with Bobby Grover going the distance, allowing two hits, Anthony Ladner's single and Bert Chevis' double.

Echo's Bobby Grover, Perry Stephens, Jimmy Loiacano, and Jackie Strong drilled out all hits against Brave pitcher Sylvan Ladner.

Bay Braves got a forfeit 9-0 over Fahey Drug who couldn't field a team and Scoops down last place Youth Center 11-3 on July 14.
